SABMiller executives highlight strong, broad-based lager growth across the group with volume and margin recovery at Miller

At an investor presentation in New York today, SABMiller's senior management team will reiterate its confidence in the group's future growth prospects in a series of presentations focused on the strategic drivers in the company's main markets.

As a group, SABMiller has continued its strong start to the year, with organic growth in lager volumes of over 11% for the five months to the end of August 2007, driven by Africa & Asia, Latin America and Central and Eastern Europe.

In North America, Miller's domestic sales to retailers (STRs) have increased by 1.3% on an organic basis after an adjustment for one less trading day in the five month period, with Miller Lite STRs up by 1.7%. Miller's strategy to grow Miller Lite in the mainstream light category and to migrate its brand portfolio to higher margin segments has contributed to an increase of 4.0% in domestic net revenue per barrel. Miller Chill, the company's new 'chelada style' light beer, sold almost 300,000 barrels in the period and is well on its way to exceeding its target of 400,000 barrels for the year, whilst volumes of the group's international worthmore brand Peroni Nastro Azzurro, and craft beer Leinenkugel's, are up by strong double digit percentages. As a result of this volume performance, the improving sales mix and further cost efficiencies, Miller expects to see margin improvement significantly in excess of 50 basis points in the current year.

In Europe, where the group has grown organic constant currency EBITA by almost 20% in each of the past 6 years, the group continues to drive strong volume growth and to take market share despite intense international competition. As these mainly Central and Eastern European markets develop, SABMiller is exploiting its ownership of the most valuable brand portfolios in these countries, improving mix through the development of innovative worthmore products and leading mainstream brand propositions.

SABMiller's operations in Latin America offer significant potential for future growth given historical under-investment in the beer category. The group is now putting substantial expenditure behind improvements to the image of its products and in developing strong portfolios of differentiated brands that appeal to a wider range of consumers and drinking occasions. Further investment in the group's production capacity, route to market and retail points of sale, through initiatives such as fleet upgrades, telesales operations and the enhancement of merchandising, will further support top-line growth. These investments are also expected to enhance margins in the medium term, although the effect will be to constrain them in the near term. Whilst the business has recently enjoyed a period of unexpectedly high volume growth during the initial implementation of the group's plans, this growth is expected to moderate over the remainder of the year.

The favourable economic landscape in South Africa will continue to underpin future volume and revenue drivers in both lager and soft drinks as the group invests to rejuvenate the mainstream beer category and to enhance its competitive position in the worthmore product segment. Building on the success of Peroni Nastro Azzurro and the recently launched Hansa Marzen Gold, the group will consider further new product launches in addition to improving market penetration through the expansion of trade licensing and direct delivery. The reintroduction of the Amstel brand following the contract termination earlier this year appears to have been delayed, limiting the anticipated financial impact to US$40-50 million in the current year.

SABMiller's Africa & Asia operations are also growing rapidly. In China, the group's joint venture has become the country's leading brewer and its main brand, SNOW, is also the country's largest lager brand with a 10% share of the market. In India, where the group's market share is approaching 35%, the recent acquisition of the Foster's brand is driving excellent growth in its mild beer portfolio. Elsewhere in Asia, SABMiller has recently commenced operations in Vietnam and it continues to seek further opportunities in the region. The development of African economies is creating opportunities to cater to a range of consumers with increasingly full brand portfolios. The group is investing in significant additional capacity and extending distribution to further extend its growth and leadership across the African continent.

The investor presentation and Q&A will be broadcast live by webcast on the company's website, www.sabmiller.com beginning at 13.30 EDT / 18.30 British Summer Time. A replay will be available following the presentation. A trading update for the group's first fiscal half will be published on 15 October, 2007.

SABMILLER AND MOLSON COORS TO COMBINE U.S. OPERATIONS IN JOINT VENTURE

- Combination of complementary assets will create a stronger, more competitive U.S. brewer with an enhanced brand portfolio
- Greater scale and resources will allow additional investment in brands, product innovation and sales execution
- Consumers and retailers will benefit from greater choice and access to brands
- Distributors will benefit from a superior core brand portfolio, simplified systems, lower operating costs and improved chain account programs
- $500 million of annual cost synergies will enhance financial performance
- SABMiller and Molson Coors with 50%/50% voting interest and 58%/42% economic interest

9 October 2007 (London and Denver) -- SABMiller plc (SAB.L) and Molson Coors Brewing Company (NYSE: TAP; TSX) today announced that they have signed a letter of intent to combine the U.S. and Puerto Rico operations of their respective subsidiaries, Miller and Coors, in a joint venture to create a stronger, brand-led U.S. brewer with the scale, resources and distribution platform to compete more effectively in the increasingly competitive U.S. marketplace.

The new company, which will be called MillerCoors, will have annual pro forma combined beer sales of 69 million U.S. barrels (81 million hectoliters) and net revenues of approximately $6.6 billion. Pro forma combined EBITDA will be approximately $842 million(1). SABMiller and Molson Coors expect the transaction to generate approximately $500 million in annual cost synergies to be delivered in full by the third full financial year of combined operations. The transaction is expected to be earnings accretive to both companies in the second full financial year of combined operations. Closing of the transaction is subject to reaching final agreement, obtaining clearance from U.S. competition authorities, certain other regulatory clearances and third-party consents, as required.

SABMiller and Molson Coors will each have a 50% voting interest in the joint venture and have five representatives each on its Board of Directors. Based on the economic value of the contributed assets, SABMiller will have a 58% economic interest in the joint venture and Molson Coors will have a 42% economic interest.

Pete Coors, Vice Chairman of Molson Coors, will serve as Chairman of MillerCoors. Graham Mackay, SABMiller CEO, will serve as Vice Chairman of MillerCoors. Leo Kiely, current CEO of Molson Coors, will be the CEO of the joint venture, and Tom Long, current CEO of Miller, will be appointed President and Chief Commercial Officer.

Commenting on the transaction, Graham Mackay, Chief Executive of SABMiller, said, "We are excited by the enhanced prospects for growth and the considerable benefits to all stakeholders that this joint venture offers. Given the highly complementary nature of our U.S. assets, operations and geographic footprint, this is a logical and compelling combination that we expect will create significant value for shareholders while benefiting distributors, consumers, retailers and the market overall. We look forward to working with Molson Coors to jointly develop the combined business."

Pete Coors, Vice Chairman of Molson Coors, said, "This transaction is driven by the profound changes in the U.S. alcohol beverage industry that are confronting both of our companies with new challenges. Consumers are broadening their tastes and are increasingly looking for greater choice and differentiation; wine and spirits companies are encroaching on traditional beer occasions, and global beer importers and craft brewers are both taking a larger share of volume and profit growth. Creating a stronger U.S. brewer will help us meet these challenges, compete more effectively and provide U.S. consumers with more choice, greater product availability and increased innovation. The Molson and Coors families are firmly in support of this strategic transaction."

Leo Kiely, Chief Executive of Molson Coors, said, "As a result of this combination, Miller and Coors will be able to provide more focused support for our flagship brands, while taking full advantage of consumers' demand for imported and craft brands and innovative products. Both companies have a lot of momentum in their businesses today, and I am confident that this will accelerate as we adopt the best practices of both organizations. I am delighted to have the opportunity to be part of such a dynamic team that will mesh truly great brewing traditions, management teams, employees and cultures, while retaining both companies' commitment to social responsibility and the communities in which we operate."

Tom Long, Chief Executive and President of Miller, said, "Many important stakeholders will see clear benefits from the new company. Distributors will benefit from a robust brand portfolio, strengthened marketing investments, reduced complexity and costs, and enhanced relationships and coverage with large chain retailers. Retail customers will have an even stronger partner to drive consumer demand through product and packaging innovation, space optimization and enhanced retail execution. Our employees will have the opportunity to work for a stronger and more competitive player in the U.S. beer industry. And the communities where we do business will see a faster growing enterprise providing important economic benefits."

Transaction Rationale - Creation of a Stronger, Brand Led U.S. Brewer

SABMiller and Molson Coors expect that the enhanced brand portfolio, scale and combined management strength of the joint venture will allow it to better compete in the highly competitive and changing U.S. marketplace and thus improve the standalone operational and financial performance of both Miller and Coors through:

- Building a Stronger Brand Portfolio and Giving Consumers More Choice
The combined company will have a more complete and differentiated brand portfolio and the ability to invest more effectively in marketing its brands to consumers. MillerCoors will build on the unique attributes of both Miller Lite and Coors Light to ensure compelling differentiation. The new company will also be better positioned to meet the increasingly diverse demands of U.S. beverage alcohol consumers through imports like Peroni, Molson and Pilsner Urquell; craft varieties including Leinenkugel's, Blue Moon and Henry Weinhard's; and specialty beers like Miller Chill, Killian's and Sparks. MillerCoors will have more flexibility and resources for brand-building initiatives and increased levels of innovation in taste, product attributes and packaging.
- Capturing Synergies and Improving Productivity
The combination of the businesses is expected to result in identified annual cost synergies of $500 million, to come from optimization of production over the existing brewery network, reduced shipping distances, economies of scale in brewery operations and the elimination of duplication in corporate and marketing services. The expected timing of the synergies is $50 million in the first full financial year of combined operations; an additional annualized $350 million in Year Two; and another annualized $100 million in Year Three - for an aggregate annual total of $500 million. One-time cash outlays required to achieve these synergies are expected to amount to a net $450 million consisting of costs of approximately $230 million and net capital expenditure of approximately $220 million.

- Creating a More Effective Competitor
This deal will create a stronger U.S. brewer with the scale, operational efficiency and distribution platform to compete more effectively in the U.S. against large scale brewers, both domestic and global, craft brewers, and wine and spirits producers. The joint venture will be positioned to respond more effectively to the needs of a consolidating distributor and retailer market, as well as to the cost pressures in the industry.
- Improving the Route to Market and Benefiting Distributors and Retailers
By leveraging complementary geographic strengths and distribution systems, the joint venture will be able to better align production with consumer location. Today, approximately 60% of the volume of the combined operation is estimated to go through a shared distribution system, and the companies have found that this has enhanced distributor effectiveness. MillerCoors will also have greater capacity to invest to meet the diverse product, packaging and service requirements of increasingly demanding consumers, distributors and the retail trade. In addition, streamlined processes and systems and more effective marketing programs will enhance distributors' ability to compete and benefit retailers.
  - o Optimizing Organizational Strength The joint venture will focus on creating a high-performing, results and value-based culture which will take the best elements of both companies to create a competitive organization, capable of the highest standards of operational and service excellence in the industry. The joint venture will continue to comply with all provisions of existing labor agreements.

Approval Process and Timetable

The transaction is subject to reaching final agreement, which is expected by the end of 2007. Closing of the transaction is also subject to obtaining clearances from the U.S. competition authorities and certain other regulatory clearances and third-party consents as required. The transaction will require the approval of a majority of Molson Coors' Class A common and exchangeable shareholders, which is expected to be given at the time of signing the definitive agreements from the Molson and Coors families, who own a majority of such shares. The transaction does not otherwise require approval by the shareholders of either party. The Miller business and the Coors business will be conducted separately and in the ordinary course between signing and completion.

Financial and Other Information

- Financial information

	Miller(1) For the year ended 31 March 2007	Coors(2) For the four fiscal quarters ended 1 April 2007	Pro forma combined
Net revenue $bn	3.9	2.7	6.6
EBITDA $m	484	358	842
EBIT $m	342(3)	241	583

(1) As reported under IFRS excluding the international segment

(2) As reported under US GAAP, excluding special items

(3) Represents the North American segmental EBITA per the annual financial statements less amortization of $9 million and EBIT of $24 million attributable to the international segment.

The partners currently plan to retain leverage outside the joint venture, supported by strong cash flow generation. Therefore, the combined business will have a strong balance sheet. Cash distributions to the partners and cash flow injections from the partners will be undertaken pro rata to the partners' economic interests.

- Financial effects on SABMiller and Molson Coors
On a pro forma basis, the transaction is expected to be accretive to earnings per share, after synergies and synergy capture costs, for both partners in the joint venture's second full financial year of combined operation. The transaction has been undertaken as a merger of equals and is expected to deliver substantial synergies, and therefore the SABMiller and Molson Coors Boards expect that the transaction will generate positive value and economic profit for each partner respectively in the second full financial year of combination.
- Financial reporting
The partners will coordinate their financial reporting to ensure that both companies' shareholders receive the same information in relation to the joint venture at the same time.

Management and Governance of the Joint Venture

In addition to the appointments of the CEO and the President and CCO of MillerCoors announced above, as part of the integration planning process, the parties will draw the senior management team of the joint venture wherever possible from existing members of the executive teams of Miller and Coors. The parties have also agreed to a process for subsequent CEO selection which will emphasize, to the extent possible, succession planning from within the joint venture.

Structure of the Transaction

The joint venture will be effected through the contribution by both parties of their U.S. and Puerto Rico operations into a limited liability company to be formed under Delaware law. Each of the parties has agreed that all its U.S. business will be conducted exclusively through the joint venture.

The international operations of Miller and Coors will not be contributed to the joint venture and will be managed separately by the respective companies. The parties will agree to appropriate brand management arrangements to protect the cross border integrity of brands in different territories. The parties will enter into appropriate contract brewing and service arrangements with the joint venture for the production of these brands for export to markets outside the U.S. and Puerto Rico(2).

SABMiller and Molson Coors will enter into a mutual standstill agreement which will prevent SABMiller and Molson Coors from making an unsolicited offer for the shares of the other party for a period of 10 years following completion of the transaction.

The parties have agreed to appropriate rights of first offer and last refusal in the event of either party wanting to sell its interest in the joint venture after an initial no sale period of 5 years.

If definitive agreements are not signed because a third party proposes a competing transaction, then if either company agrees before 31 December 2008 to implement a competing transaction, that company will pay to the other a break-up fee of $150 million.

SABMiller plc Trading Update

SABMiller plc today provided an update regarding trading during the six-month period to 30 September 2007, which is the first half of its financial year. The calculation of the organic growth rates included below excludes volumes for acquired businesses for the first 12 months after an acquisition.

As communicated on 24 September 2007 SABMiller has continued its strong start to the year, with organic growth in lager volumes of 11% for the six months ended 30 September 2007. The growth in revenue has been partially offset by higher input costs and increased investment across the business whilst financial performance for the six months remains in line with management's expectations.

In Latin America, lager volumes rose by 8%. Whilst South America has enjoyed a period of high volume growth during the initial implementation of the group's plans, this growth has moderated in recent months as expected. In Colombia, lager volumes have grown more than 7% in the half year. Slower growth was recorded in the latter part of the period, off a high base in the prior year. The Colombia operation continues with the major restructuring of its route to market network and the phased relaunch of the market leading Aguila brand. In Peru, volumes are up 10% in a market which remains highly competitive. The business continues its significant investments across the region in route to market, brand building and merchandising which are expected to constrain margins in the short term.

Europe achieved organic growth in lager volumes of 12%. Sales in the first two months of the half year were particularly strong, assisted by warm weather, but volumes moderated somewhat in the later months. Poland achieved growth of 13% across its portfolio, notwithstanding challenging comparatives. Volumes in Russia were up by 18% with all brands contributing to this growth. Romania grew by 37%, boosted by the increased capacity introduced in the prior year and driven by the ongoing success of the Timisoreana brand and its new PET packaging. In the Czech Republic good volume growth of 3% was achieved.

In North America, Miller's domestic sales to retailers (STRs) increased by 5.9% over the prior year, and were up 1.4% on an organic basis (excluding Sparks and Steel Reserve, acquired in August 2006), with Miller Lite STRs up by 2.1%. Miller's strategy to grow Miller Lite and to migrate its brand portfolio to higher margin segments has contributed to an increase of 3.9% in domestic net revenue per barrel. Miller Chill, the company's new 'chelada style' light beer, continues to trade above expectations whilst volumes of the group's international worthmore brand Peroni Nastro Azzurro and craft beer Leinenkugel's are up by strong double digit percentages.

SABMiller's Africa & Asia operations have again grown rapidly and achieved organic growth of some 20% in lager volumes, driven by China where volumes have increased by 22%. In Africa (excluding Zimbabwe), lager volumes grew by 6% on an organic basis, with 11% volume growth in Botswana after two difficult years and very good performances achieved in Tanzania and Mozambique.

In South Africa, our lager volumes were up 2% with stronger growth in the mainstream segment and following the successful launch of our premium brand, Hanza Marzen Gold, in early May. Recently volume performance has been somewhat constrained due to a combination of local supply shortages and reduced flexibility during new brand and pack introductions including the implementation of our mainstream renovation programme. Soft drink volumes grew by 9% reflecting favourable weather conditions and trade restocking in earlier months following
